

ASHORE ON FIRE ISLAND.

THE STEAMSHIP IDAHO BEACHED
NEAR THE SUB NOTES

Coolness of Capt. Moore—Calming the Fears of Terrified Passengers—Four Hundred and Fifty People Safely Landed.

Idaho went ashore at 9 A. M. yesterday morning at Fire Island opposite the Surf Hotel. She lies side on to the beach, and is said to be broken amidships. She had four hundred passengers, all of whom were saved.

Some of the steerage passengers of the Idaho reached Babylon at 6:35 P. M. by sail boats and took up their quarters in the Central Railroad depot to await the coming of a special train which had been telegraphed for by the agent of the Williams & Guion line.

In all the vessel carried about 450 passengers, mainly steerage, and embracing representatives of nearly all nationalities. These were Swedes, Irish, English and Germans, the latter including a large delegation of Prussians.

At 6 o'clock this morning the fog was thick and dense. The ship was making good headway on the water, ran high, but having a pilot aboard all felt safe. Many of the passengers lounged about the deck revelling in the anticipation of soon putting foot upon American soil, while others remained below.

At 6:15 the ship, slightly shaped of the vessel, was checked by a sudden shock, and for a moment it was thought that she had collided with some other craft. The officer of the deck and many of the passengers crowded forward and peered into the fog, which was so dense that to see one's hand when the arm was raised was impossible.

That the shock did not result from a collision was soon made evident; for the vessel stopped, strained, or broken, but she was evidently imbedded in soft sand, and all efforts to pull her out were fruitless. The vessel was now going at about five miles an hour, the density of the fog was such that the vessel was not seen.

The shock and the sudden stoppage created

A STORY FROM THE PLAINS.

Four Persons Killed to Save a Man from Piratization—The Murderer's Confession.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The agent at Las Pinas Indian agency, Colorado, reports to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs the circumstances by which five men lost their lives lately upon the Ute Indian Reservation. One warrior, upon arriving at the agency, was questioned as to what became of his companions. He represented that they had probably died from hunger and cold since they left him to hunt alone. He had been told to go to the agency, where, upon investigation, there being suspicious circumstances, the man (whose name is Pucker) finally confessed under oath that one after another of these five persons had been killed by the remainder, and that he himself had killed the last of the party. He was then taken to the agency, where he expected only the two first victims of whom he spoke as having died from starvation.

Mr. Campbell of London, leaving his wife at the Theatre last evening, was accosted by two strangers.

A despatch from Camp Vinton, Oregon, Oct. 10, 1890, reports that about a reported Indian outbreak by Ocho's band, it is said that the whites have been ordered to leave this country, and that many families have sought refuge in the United States at Fort Vancouver.

The Deputy State Treasurer authorizes the statement that the rumors of a detachment of troops in the hands of Treasurer Klamm are without foundation. An examination reveals the fact that although Klamm is a private citizen, he is not a private citizen, but is a private citizen of the State of Oregon, and is a private citizen of the State of Oregon, and is a private citizen of the State of Oregon.
